WEDDING

McPhail—Vance

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hanbidge, Kerrobert, Sask., on the afternoon of Thursday, February 4, when Miss Hilda G. Vance, R.N., youngest daughter of Mrs. J. E. Vance-Bedford, of Vancouver, B.C. became the bride of Wilbur D. McPhail, M.D., L.M.C.C., M.C.P.S., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Benson Smith Summers, M.A., M.M., 100 guests were entertained at a wedding dinner. Dr. and Mrs. McPhail, left later in the evening for their home in Oyen and arrived here on Saturday morning.

Dr. McPhail has only been a resident of Oyen about three months, but during that time has made many friends who hold him in high esteem, and in their good wishes to the bride and groom for future health and happiness, the News very heartily joins.

COMMITTEE WILL INQUIRE INTO CUSTOMS CHARGE

Ottawa.—That there never was any secrecy regarding his giving of information to H. H. Stevens, M.L.A. of Vancouver, in connection with smuggling operations, is stressed in a statement given by Percy Sparks, O.Y.A. chairman of the executive committee of the Criminal Protective Association.

Mr. Sparks, in fact, pointed out that Hon. George H. Brown had been told by him that he was co-operating with Mr. Stevens and that he had the approval of the Criminal Protective Association. Mr. Sparks and other members of his association are prepared to appear before the committee when it is appointed, and they possess.

In continuing the debate in the house, Donald Robertson, Conservative, South Oxford, declared his surprise that the Progressives should give the government their support on the strength of a promise from the speech from the throne to introduce legislation which the government's own supporters had opposed in the past.

He charged that during the last election voters were transferred from him on a constituency to another to support the government. He said that the attitude of the Opposition was contrary to logic. The Conservatives had described the government as a "crazy" but the government had been sustained in its course twice within the past two weeks. Parliament had its own preference for the government over the Tory party.

Irish Court's Bill Has Second Reading

Would Make Free State Courts Independent of Privy Council
Dublin.—The bill to amend the Irish Free State Courts Act, introduced in the Dail, January 27, by Kevin O'Higgins, vice-president and minister of Justice of the Irish Free State, provides that the decisions of the Irish courts shall be, absolutely final, without reference to the privy council. London one has been introduced.

"As a government, we are opposed to the retention of this remnant of the sovereign's prerogative," declared Minister of Justice O'Higgins, with reference to the privy council.

"We think it ought to lapse by non-use. Just as other prerogatives have lapsed. Let us talk of the privy council as simply a court. Without any suggestion of irrelevance or inefficiency, we can consider whether it is a useful and necessary court. The feeling which the Government of the Irish Free State holds with regard to the privy council is widely held throughout the British Commonwealth."

"This bill, which is a constitutional protest against the retention of the privy council in the Irish Free State, we hope will be effective. A House of Lords is a rich man's appeal court, and the rich man's appeal court is a neighbor. 'I will break you.' This will not continue if anything we can do, either by ourselves or with the help of the other Dominions, to prevent it."

May Withdraw From Cable Plan
Ottawa.—Hon. Charles Murphy, postmaster-general, has notified the Pacific cable board that he will recommend the withdrawal of Canada from the partnership with the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand, under which the Pacific cable was constructed. Too Many U. S. Pictures Says London County Council

It also advocated making compulsory the exhibition of a certain proportion of British films.

Big Butter Shipment

New Zealand Sent 326,000 Pounds of Butter to Vancouver

Vancouver.—A total of 326,000 pounds of butter was shipped from New Zealand to the line Arand, most of which is for consumption in Vancouver.

In the first week in January an initial shipment of 5,000 boxes was brought in, with the result that the bulk of the British Columbia product fell from 45 cents a pound wholesale to 44 cents.

It is not expected that there will be any further price advances, but the fact that colder weather on the prairies has reduced production there.

Votes Depends On Programme

Miss McPhail Says People Are His

Ottawa, Ont.—Angela McPhail, M.P., has declared a good deal of sympathy for the Conservative programme in the House of Commons. She said that she was not a Conservative, but she was a woman of the people, and she was a woman of the people.

"People are misinterpreting the situation. We voted on a constitutional question. We did not give the government a vote of confidence. For my part, I do not intend to change my vote, it depends on the programme."

Ancient Site Discovered

Market Place of Roman London Re-discovered

London.—Excavations for a building at the corner of Grace Church Street and Lombard Street, the latest commercial section of London have revealed what is believed to be the site of the main forum, or market place of Roman London during, roughly, the first four centuries of the Christian era, when the city was called Londinium.

Survey Has Disclosed That Ontario Has 1,500 More Miles Adjoining Manitoba

Ottawa.—As a result of surveys carried on during the past year it has been found that Ontario has approximately 1,500 square miles of territory more than previously estimated, according to the report of the land survey committee of the Association of the Dominion Land Surveyors. The report was submitted at the annual meeting here.

A survey has disclosed that the position of Island Lake, the governing point on the unsurveyed boundary between the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba was 25 miles out of place. The correction of this added the 1,500 square miles to Ontario area.

In the Northwest Territories, an exploratory trip was made across country never before visited by the white man where a lake series two hundred miles long was discovered.

The report, which includes the activities of the land surveyors, records that a star was placed on a survey of the north boundary of the province of Alberta, the line being marked by permanent posts, for a distance of 24 miles westward from Slave River.

DAIRY PRODUCTS ARE NEEDED IN GREATER VOLUME

Regina.—Stressing the value of dairymen in the production of a program and containing the province of Saskatchewan, Hon. C. M. Hanlon, minister of agriculture, presented the dairymen and their products, the most important of the various agricultural products in the province, as stated by the Saskatchewan Dairy Association, at the annual banquet.

R. W. Helm, president, was in the chair, and there was a record of attendance of approximately 100.

A feature of the program was the presentation by the minister of agriculture of the trophies won by Chris Hansen, butter maker, for the Saskatchewan Cooperative Creameries, Regina, for first place in unsalted butter competition in the London, England, dairy show last year, and the second prize for salted butter, won by J. A. Hansen, butter maker, for the same creameries, Ltd., Carleton Place, at the same show.

Mr. Hanlon said it was particularly gratifying to see the producers and manufacturers gathered together in good fellowship. Both had a great deal in common. Both were interested in production and the needs for increasing the volume of their products, and both parties recognized the importance of placing high quality products on the market for the world and the value of uniformity.

Professor R. M. Wainman, St. Paul, Minnesota, converted the greetings of the dairy producers of Minnesota. He has attended conferences in 36 states and six provinces of the last 20 years, has congratulated Saskatchewan on having the spirit of optimism and co-operation to a degree seldom met in other sections of the country.

D. P. Scott, secretary and general counsel to the National Dairy Council of Canada, and E. N. Hopkins, Nova Scotia, also briefly addressed the gathering.

How Texas Controls Crime

Members of Police Force Are Expert Pistol Shots

San Antonio.—News here in the shadow of the old Alamo, folk generally and the police in particular, have a reputation for being quick on the trigger. But San Antonio, with a population of more than 200,000 and a police department of 193, has not had a murder in 10 years.

The remarkable absence of gun men, auto-bombers and others of that sort of the population is accredited to the fact that there are 25 men on the force who are expert pistol shots. The whole force, including the municipal police, are trained in the use of the pistol, and the police are trained in the use of the pistol.

Two ships were reported in distress at sea, and a third, the Dutch freighter Sid Zelle, was reported to have been hit by a wave and to have been wrecked at Providence, R.I., after her lumber had been emptied by her long battle with the storm.

Three persons lost their lives in New York through exposure to the storm, and several others were injured in traffic accidents.

Wealth Production In The North

Salt Refinery Recently Established at Fort McMurray

Last week five cars of salt were brought down from the refinery recently established at Ft. McMurray. Nine cars of fish also came in, making a car shipped from the lakes served by the A. and C. W. line the middle of last month. The resources of that section of the province are being brought into use, not so rapidly as could be wished. The fur trade of course is older than Edmonton, and the original cause of a trading post being located there. For many years a large sawmill in Edmonton has drawn its log supply from lakes tapped by the A. and C. W. The reports of fish from the northern lakes is a well established business, one that makes a large item in the trade total for this district, and has done so for a number of years.

The establishment of the salt refinery marks the beginning of an industry which must grow with the population of the whole prairie country and reach very large proportions eventually. As yet very little salt is used in Alberta asphalt is brought out, but the deposits are practically inexhaustible, the need for surfacing material for streets and roads throughout the prairie province is large and increasing, and with a return of more prosperous times it will grow rapidly. If the railway handles more tar sand than any other commodity, it is doubtful if such a deposit, situated three hundred miles from any other city in Canada would not long have lain unused. That condition cannot persist, and the refinery, and certainly not so soon as Edmonton built.

Winter-feeding Stock Turkeys

Light Feed of Scratch Grain in the Morning and Full Feed at Night

There is danger of turkey keepers getting too much of the turkey feed being served. Dependence, says Mr. Geo. Robertson, assistant Dominion turkey husbandman, should be placed largely on alfalfa or clover hay and scratch grain. The last mentioned should be fed sparingly and in a deep litter so that the birds will have to work for their food. If, instead of alfalfa, clover hay is fed, it will have to be supplemented with grain, and it should be continuously available. As the time that goes by, the weather grows colder, the ration can be gradually increased until they are similar to that recommended for ordinary fowls. Regarding the latter, Mr. Robertson, in his bulletin on "Turkey Feeds and Feeding," which can be had at his own application to the publication branch, Ottawa, advises that broilers should be fed a varied non-stimulating ration that will be added to the mash by the addition of alfalfa meal to the mixture, and that a light feed of scratch grain be fed in the morning and a full feed at night. As breeding time approaches a little raw liver is added to the ration. An occasional feed of cod liver oil will do no harm in the laying birds. Great food in variety is a necessity.

Franklin's Original Epitaph

Has Been in Collection of Chicago Business Man For Twenty Years

Benjamin Franklin's original epitaph which had been kept hidden in the collection of a Chicago business man since its discovery twenty years ago was made public on the eve of Franklin's birthday. The inscription differs in only a few words and punctuation marks from the widely known epitaph of "Poor Richard." It follows: "Died Franklin, Printer. Take the cover of an old book. Its contents turn out. And strip of its lettering and glazing. Lies here food for worms. But the work shall not be wholly lost. For it will, as he believed, appear after many years. In a new and more perfect edition. Corrected and amended. By the Author."

Had a Rich Girl's Grace

Once Kuhn, the millionaire philanthropist, called at a dinner in New York.

"The clergies that our benevolent friends bring against the moneyed classes remind me of the forger who complained to his wife: 'Don't talk to me about the rich. They're hopeless. Here I spent two hard-earned weeks out of (God knows) a fortnight, doing just what the very day I spent out to pass one of his checks the apocryphal old stunk me and fall.'—Chicago Daily News."

Britain's Great Naval Sight

Portsmouth to Marvellous Night It Seen First From Sea

To realize the marvels of Portsmouth, it must be seen first from the sea. Coming in St. Helen's, writes Herbert Vivian, we pass the cheese-shaped forts of granite that, from the edge of the water between the east end of the Isle of Wight and Southern Castle on the mainland. On the slopes of Portland III stands the famous monument to Nelson, with the anchor of the Victory displayed on the granite base. As far the eye can see, the whole place bristles with forts, rows and tiers of batteries of forts, all set out with the most wonderful ingenuity of modern science to guard the entrance to the harbor, bar in a vision. The whole panorama is a vision of beauty, majesty and strength. It is not how that the Grand Fleet assembled in August, 1914, saving Britain from invasion and appalling (Portsmouth) as a place of pilgrimage and pride. If once enemy ships could have broken through into the English Channel, Portsmouth would have been their first objective, perhaps their richest prize.

The entrance to Portsmouth Harbor is narrower than a finger, and London Bridge, but has sufficient depth of water to permit battleships to enter at any state of the tide. Soon it expands into a broad estuary, and five miles up stands old Portsmouth Castle, built by William the Conqueror. Here throughout the centuries has been an extraordinary scene of intense and unvarying activity, whereby the traditions of Portsmouth as the naval center of the empire were ever upheld. And here today we are still confronted by a sight that deserves to be reckoned among the wonders of Britain.

Water Can Be Believed to Be Product of Millions of Years Ago

Experts of the University of Manitoba who have examined a fossil discovered in the last 20 feet of the Tynall strata, Manitoba, estimate its age at 60,000,000 years. The fossil which is known as "Trilobites" is a long, thin, water-carrying something like a crab that crawled at the bottom of the large sea that covered the prairie millions of years ago, according to experts.

Plants Struggle For Existence

Vegetable Seed Drops Deep Into the Ground to Obtain Moisture

The silent struggle for existence and the lengths to which a thing, like a pumpkin, may go are made known by Prof. J. E. Weaver and Dr. Herbert C. Hanson, who have concluded an intensive inquiry at Lincoln, Neb., into the private lives of these and other vegetable plants. They made their findings public before the American Association for the Advancement of Science in their recent convention at Kansas City. Plants seek water, says Prof. Hanson, and pumps, and turpentine, and their roots down ten feet, these scientists have discovered. The roots of pumpkins and squashes, often growing at the rate of 2 to 2.5 inches a day, reach as far as the base of the plant as the widely spreading vines, often fifteen to eighteen feet.

Corn Gives the Best Value as a Summerfallow Crop

For "light years" the feasibility of growing an intertilled crop instead of summerfallow land being prepared for grain the following year has been under investigation at the Leitchburg, Alta., experimental station. The substitute crops used were corn and potatoes. The latter gave the highest average, but the superintendent, W. H. Fairchild, in his report says that the market for potatoes is so uncertain and in dry years they grow so small, that they constitute a crop of doubtful value to raise on a large scale.

Corn has given the best value as a summerfallow substitute, the report states. It is possible to grow an early maturity variety for hogging off or a later variety for fables or on stables. If a farmer is growing corn he must prepare to cultivate it suitably to keep it from being a weed, which are the principal obstacle to overcome. are allowed to grow, as has been done in many of the countries of Southern Alberta, says Mr. Fairchild, the crop cannot be considered as a summerfallow substitute. It is much more like a winter crop in its effect on the next year's crop. Yet another mistake that has been made in corn, according to the same authority, has been planting of a late-maturing variety for fodder and then failing to harvest it before it becomes severely frost, thus losing much of its value. Summerfallow, and what it now has been proved for three years, but neither has proved as satisfactory as corn.

Discover Ancient Fossil

Water Can Be Believed to Be Product of Millions of Years Ago

Experts of the University of Manitoba who have examined a fossil discovered in the last 20 feet of the Tynall strata, Manitoba, estimate its age at 60,000,000 years. The fossil which is known as "Trilobites" is a long, thin, water-carrying something like a crab that crawled at the bottom of the large sea that covered the prairie millions of years ago, according to experts.

U. S. and Rubber Prices

Occupying a Position of Isolation, Have No Market for Rubber. Rubber, tin and coffee, which are American necessities, are almost wholly American imports. Other like commodities might be named. But these three suffer to invalidate that notion, because by the free trade policies in the senate, that the United States is, or can become, a self-sufficient economic entity. The hope, were it plausible, would not be, it is realized, a beneficial scheme, since not isolated nations, but communicating and communicating ones are those that wax in riches and well being. The fact is that the whole earth today is a single, though variegated, pattern, and that no nation and no continent exists or can exist to itself.

Secretary Hoover, who is canny beyond the reach of the usual senator or congressman, expresses himself as fearful of chronic combinations abroad to make a pay unduly for those commodities we cannot produce but must have. He calls it "about a coming world trade war." He is about the last man to talk through his hat.

Well, what can we expect? We of the United States do not belong to the club, and we cannot even say that we have acted wisely or have "let that wait, not since 1913. If we don't want to let clubby or act to, that is our privilege; but we needn't feel so galled and surprised when we find ourselves called upon to pay the price for our exclusiveness. Everything in this world needs to be paid for, even the business of making our own business, of hunting our hole, of seeking alone. For a people who individually may be the shrewdest in the world, collectively we are not well disposed to be naïve—Minneapolis Journal.

Canadian Ports Must Meet Competing Rates to Get the Business

With the object of investigating the market for Canadian wheat in Europe, R. H. Ramsay, director of the Canadian Prospective Wheat Pool, P. L. Smith, manager, and A. H. Clarke, Montreal representative, sailed from Halifax, Feb. 1, for England on the steamer J. The object of sailing from this port, it was stated, was to inspect the local harbor and its facilities for handling grain.

Mr. Smith, commenting on Western and Eastern Canada's policy as regards grain routing, said it Halifax expressed his belief that the facilities must be on a par with its competitors' facilities. The Canadian Wheat Pool, he said, desired to make use of Canadian ports as much as possible, but he pointed out that grain must be shipped via the cheapest route. If Halifax wanted to handle Western Canada's grain traffic, Halifax must be able to offer as cheap rates as other competing ports for western shipping, did not contemplate making any sacrifice in favor of Halifax or any other Canadian port.

"We will ship their product only by the cheapest route," said Mr. Smith.

Wheat From the North

Grain Shipments From Northern Alberta Were Heavy This Season

Grain shipments from the territory in Northern Alberta served by the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, for the crop year 1925, now total 1,857,000 bushels. This is considerably in excess of 1924 and 1925, when ports for western shipping did not contemplate making any sacrifice in favor of Halifax or any other Canadian port.

ON THE AIR

What is Doing in the World of Radio

London artists are broadcasting live programmes.

There are still some bad features about the radio. That "prisoner" for example.

Australian broadcasting and education authorities have got together on a joint programme to offer educational courses by radio.

Something new in radio production was attempted recently when a one-act comedy, "Part of the Game," was successfully broadcast from CRCK, Regina.

On the eve of the Saskatchewan Dairy Association convention, R. W. Heim, Prince Albert, president, broadcast a ten-minute address on the dairy industry from CRCK, Regina.

Don't write your favorite radio station and tell them that you enjoyed the programme they broadcasted. Say "broadcast," as it sounds better and it's right!

Children under 12 years of age have been refused permission to take part in a broadcast recently at Birmingham, Eng. The local educational authorities will permit children between 12 and 14 to perform up till 9.15 p.m.

A two-day communication was established recently between a radio enthusiast in Kolar, on the northwestern frontier in India, and London, in England, a distance of 2,000 miles.

Skaters "danced" to radio melodies on a number of ponds in London, England during the recent festive season. Musical skating parties were organized in Warwickshire, Northamptonshire and near London, to take advantage of the ice.

Officers of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, recently formed, were elected as follows: J. N. Gifford, CKAC, Montreal, president; Main Johnson, CFCU, Toronto, vice-president; A. H. Brown, Canadian National Radio, Toronto, secretary-treasurer; G. M. Bell, CKOK, Regina, and P. H. Combs, CIBC, Toronto.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters was organized in Toronto recently. The purpose of the association is to further the interests of its members, to improve the standard of broadcasting, to promote the interests of the owners of receiving sets and to spread by means of radio a wider knowledge of Canada, its advantages and opportunities.

Greenland is the latest country to go in for radio. Not that the Eskimos who comprise most of the very sparse population that inhabits Greenland's icy mountains are likely to be keen radio enthusiasts, but it is thought that radio installations are essential for the protection and betterment of the hundreds of whaling and fishing boats that frequent these waters.

The British radio public is becoming intrigued by reports of a new invention, called the "telegraphone," which has recently survived a number of tests and which may soon be placed on the market. The "telegraphone" is an instrument to "bottle" or "can" radio programmes, store them and later reproduce them at any time when the radio public can listen more conveniently.

Will Not Attend Celebration

Nations Refuse U. S. President's Invitation Mainly For Financial Reasons

The great power of the world have decided to turn a cold shoulder to Philadelphia's sesqui-centennial this summer, it was disclosed in an official statement of the nations that have accepted and those which have declined invitations to attend, was made public at the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

President Coolidge issued invitations last summer to more than 50 nations to participate in America's 150th birthday party celebrating the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The state department announced that only nine nations have accepted. Japan, Spain, Argentina and Hungary are the larger powers which have promised to celebrate with Great Britain, Brazil, The Netherlands, Poland, and Mexico head the list of nations which have refused. France, Italy, Germany, Canada have not even accepted the invitations, and it was reported in reliable quarters that these, with other smaller nations, not heard from, would either decline in the near future or cut any prospective participation to the bone.

One reason held up here for the apparent lack of support abroad for the fair is the decision, arrived at over 122nd Street and 122nd Street, June of this year. Several nations are known to feel that the time is too short to make practicable participation. Other nations are still waiting for financial reasons, it was said.

The complete list of acceptances as follows: Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Liberia, Japan, Hungary, Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, Spain, Portugal, Romania, Rumania, and Yugoslavia.

Latvia, Brazil, Netherlands, Costa Rica, Great Britain, Spain, Mexico, Poland and Switzerland have not yet decided. Brazil, Portugal, Egypt were all reported as having first accepted and subsequently declined to come.

Under battered hatches for four days while heavy seas rolled over the vessel, carrying milk ventilators and other deck fittings overboard, the voyage had many thrills.

LANFINE LOCALS

The "hard times" dance held in the community hall last Friday was well patronized and the judges had no little difficulty in deciding on the best costumes, as much ingenuity was displayed by many of the contestants.

As new members join up their names are added to the membership list and an official acknowledgement is sent to each new member. Mr. J. W. Any new member who has signed a contract with the Association should write to Head Office if he does not receive an official acknowledgement of the receipt of his Contract within a reasonable time.

This car was used in hospital service during the war and was sold, with others, to the Italian State Railways after the armistice.

Strange scenes are laid in the Canadian west on account of hares, frosts and snow. The trees and shrubs are covered with snow forming strange white animals in the Rockies Horse Pass region. A number of photographs were taken recently in this neighborhood showing grotesque and terrifying figures in the form of prehistoric animals.

Her Excellency, Lady Byng, wife of the Governor-General of Canada, speaking at Ottawa recently, gave a vivid description of the scenic beauties of the Canadian Pacific Rockies. She advised Canadians to see Canada first and get to know this country and something of the lives of the people who live in its various parts.
